HOW MUCH FOOD SHOULD YOU EAT?

You may think that food requirements were measured in vitamins, but before the discovery of vitamins, the amount and kinds of food that should be eaten daily were measured in calories. A calorie is a measured amount of heat, that is, the amount required to raise one kilogram of water (a little over two pounds) one degree centigrade (which is about 2½ degrees Fahrenheit). Thus the average diet was made up of one part protein—meat, eggs, fish, two parts fats—butter, cream, lard, meats and four parts starches—bread, potatoes, fruits and vegetables. In calories this would mean about 400 of proteins, 800 of fats and 1,600 of vegetables and fruits daily for average man doing some work daily. This method of calorie measurement is still in use.

In an article on nutrition in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. Eugene F. DuBois and William H. Chambers, New York city, state:

The amount of heat given off by the resting man of average size (at complete rest and no digestion going on) is about equal to the heat of a 60-watt electric bulb or the flame of an alcohol lamp about one inch high. A man exercising hard equals the heat of 10 such lamps. As most of us are not at complete rest all the time, nor are we working hard all the time, the amount of food needed will depend upon how much we rest and how hard we work. Thus one table of the number of calories needed by various trades is:

Men: Tailor, 2,600; bookbinder, 3,000; shoemaker, 3,100; cobble-maker, 3,500 to 3,600; stone mason, 4,700 to 5,200; wood sawyer, 5,500 to 6,000. There are other trades such as moulder or foundrymen, stokers, molten metal workers and others where 0,000 calories are needed daily.

Women: Stenographer or office worker, 2,000 calories; seamstress with hand needle, 2,000; seamstress with machine, 2,100 to 2,300; bookbinder, 2,100 to 2,300; household worker, 2,500 to 3,200; washer-woman, 2,900 to 3,700.

Facts About Acne, Pimples

Although the various methods of treatment help many cases of acne (pimples), the actual cause of acne is not fully known. Because it occurs at or near the age of puberty, most physicians believe that acne is in some way connected with the changes in the glands which causes boys and girls to emerge into men and women.

In the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology, Dr. Hamilton, Yale medical school, reports results in cases where he was able to bring on acne in certain individuals. He found that giving the hormone or extract of the male sex gland to boys who had not reached puberty, some of them developed blackheads, pimples, with and without pus formation. When the treatment with the sex hormone was stopped, the pimples became smaller and disappeared. When given again, the pimples returned.

This does not mean that this gland extract is the only factor entering into the cause of acne as diet, heredity, and infection may also be factors. However, despite other factors, the pimples appeared only when the sex hormone was given. There seems to be something in this male hormone substance that stimulates the sebaceous or oil glands of the skin."

For this reason, Dr. Hamilton suggests that as there is some relation between the thyroid gland—the master gland of the body—and the sex glands, there is logical reason for the use of desiccated thyroid gland extract in cases of acne at the time of puberty. The thyroid extract checks any excess of oil pouring out from the oil glands on the skin and stimulates the skin cells to a more normal activity. The thyroid extract stimulates all the body processes and therefore the skin. Excellent results have been obtained by using thyroid by mouth and also by the use of injections of pituitary extract. As with oil extracts, this should be done under supervision of a physician.

QUESTION BOX

Q What causes ringing of the ears?

A Ringing of ears may be due to the partial blocking of ear canals by wax, blood, pressure and too much liquid in ear canals. It is also due to a brain tumor, or to some disease of the inner ear, such as labyrinthitis or neuritis. It is general use best to avoid excess noise.

WHY PUT UP WITH CONSTIPATION?

If you suffer from that common form of constipation due to lack of bulk in your diet, dosing yourself with harsh cathartics and laxatives will give you only temporary relief.

However, adding a slice of all-bran to your regular meal and drinking plenty of water will not only get rid of the cause of such constipation, but will correct it.

BELL DELL's ALL-BRAN is a delicious breakfast cereal that, unlike medicinal purges, doesn't work chiefly on you—but works painlessly on the contents of your colon.

The gaily enameled unit insignia you see on a soldier's lapels and overseas cap are reproductions of his regimental shield displayed in the center of the eagle on his regimental flag. It's a part of U. S. Army tradition. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel cigarettes. (Based on actual sales records from service men's own stores.) It's a gift from the folks back home, that always rates cheers. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Chewing gum and rubber like something to chew on. They both are the products of latex-bearing trees. The white latex from white chicle is used to make chewing gum and for rubber. Natural latex has the greatest elasticity. Chicle and Castillo rubber from Brazil is much the same strength.

Synthetic rubber is a strong leather-like material made by B. F. Goodrich engineers for cars in a year. When synthetic rubber becomes available in sufficient quantities, formers may expect such things as leather shoes.

A Boston rubber-bearing plant now being successfully operated in the United States. Its sales to the American rubber program, however, is still undetermined.

The company has proved its war-time value, and the racing girls should be done before the race rubber of the tire is completely worn.

When armored knights met, it was customary for each knight to stand his visor of his helmet as a means of identification. This gesture has gone down through all centuries in the form of the salute. The American, too, is the American's successor. As Camel cigarettes are known in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard, a final salute should be given to the favorite cigarette. Like the favorite soldier, it can be won and though there are many other烟种, none can begin to compare with Camel.

Fight the Forgery Racket!

By FRANK J. WILSON
Chief, United States Secret Service

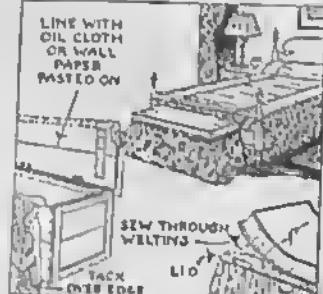

DO YOU receive checks from the United States government? If you do, then look out for the pen-and-pencil pirate—the check forged!

Millions of government checks are sent to dependents of men in the army and navy of the United States. Millions of checks are sent to people who receive social security benefits. Whenever one of these checks is dropped in your mail box by your mail carrier, it presents an opportunity for a check thief to steal it. When that happens, it may be months before the government can send you another check to replace the one which was stolen.

The United States secret service, a branch of the treasury department, works to put the check thief and the forger out of business. If you will help yourself, you will keep the crook from helping himself to your check.

Put a good lock on your mail box; it'll do not already have one. A lock may prevent a loss. Have your name printed clearly on the box.

Something Want to Sell?

TO YOUR LIVER

by DR. JAMES W. BARTON

Released by Western News Co. of Marion

RHEUMATIC FEVER

For many years what are called the anti-liver have been the regular or routine treatment for rheumatism. The colleague most used is acetylsalicylic acid, which gets different names from various drug manufacturers in the United States and Great Britain. What has been known by more physicians has not been put into use in any extent, is that acetylsalicylic acid used when attacks of acute rheumatism occur, may actually prevent rheumatism. The "preventive" treatment of rheumatism used by some physicians is to have the patient move to a dry warm climate, or by use of large and continued doses of sulfathiazole.

Now, every patient cannot move to a dry warm climate and maintaining a high level of sulfathiazole is not advisable in some cases. In alleviating the natural outbreaks of these two methods of preventing attacks of rheumatism, Drs. A. F. Culbertson and L. V. Moore, in the Journal of Pediatrics (children's diseases) state that the acetylsalicylic is safe and effective and should be given a trial at the beginning of any infection of nose and throat. A study of a group of rheumatically children exposed to the common nose and throat and chest infections is reported.

A daily dose of 60 to 80 grains of acetylsalicylic acid, depending on size of the patient, was given at first sign of sore throat (pharyngitis) where examination of organisms in the throat were the kind that cause rheumatism. This treatment was continued for one month.

Forty-seven young rheumatic patients received this "preventive" treatment and only one developed rheumatic fever. Of 139 rheumatic patients who were not given this treatment, 57 developed rheumatic fever and 82 did not. These figures tell their own story; only one of the 47 who took the treatment developed rheumatic fever, that is about 2 per cent, and of the 139 who did not take this treatment, 57 developed rheumatic fever, that is more than 40 per cent.

Gaining in Fight Against Epilepsy

A few years ago I had the feeling that if I had the time and the patience necessary I would like to try to investigate the cause of epilepsy and try to give these patients and their families relief from this distressing ailment. At that time the treatment was careful dieting and the use of bromides to quiet the patient. The bromides did quiet the patient and did give considerable help in cutting down the number of attacks or making them lighter.

I believed that eating certain foods had something to do with epilepsy because I had been able to keep one patient free of attacks for over a year by washing out his stomach twice a week.

Then came the knowledge that cutting down on starch foods, eating more fat foods, and the use of the barbiturate drugs would keep the majority of epileptics practically free of attacks.

Later came the use of dilantin to replace the barbiturate drugs, and, despite the fact that some physicians still prefer barbiturates in some cases, it appears that dilantin sodium is used by physicians treating

In a special editorial article in the June American Medical Association, Dr. W. G. Lammert, of Marion, and Dr. E. C. Johnson, of Marion, have been discussing the use of dilantin in the treatment of epilepsy. They say that the use of dilantin has been found to be very effective in the treatment of epilepsy.

Dr. Lammert says that the use of dilantin has been reported to be effective in the treatment of epilepsy in some cases, but he adds that it is not effective in all cases.

Surprise the Family With Sandwich Loaf!
(See Recipe Below)

Meals in a Dish

We've heard a lot about hot meals in a casserole that take care of the malaise course of a meal. But how about cool meals served on a single attractive platter that are most of the time, at least, quite up ahead of time? This is one of the very nice things about summer menu planning for foods lend themselves to this kind of serving.

Recently I saw a very attractive platter that was cool, complete and colorful—that any one of you could whip up at short notice. An individual tomato aspic filled with creamed cottage cheese served on a large green glass salad plate was backed by several tiny finger sandwiches, a slice of tongue with horseradish sauce, deviled eggs, a small mound of potato salad and a sprig of ivy leaves. Serve this with coffee or tea and a dish of sherbet or ice cream.

Bread with filling forms an interesting base for this salad-sandwich loaf and looks very pretty enclosed in rosy aspic. The fillings, ham and cheese, classic flavor combinations, won't cut into your points heavily, nor will the tomato juice:

Tomato Aspic Surprise.

(Serves 6)

1 small loaf white bread
Ham Salad
1 8-ounce glass Old English cheese
3½ cups Tomato juice
2 tablespoons onion juice
1 stalk celery
2 tablespoons gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Watercress

Remove crusts from loaf of bread. Cut whole loaf into three lengthwise slices. Spread one slice with ham salad, cover with second slice spread with cheese spread. Cover with third slice of bread and wrap in wax paper.

Cook tomato juice, onion juice and celery for 5 minutes. Remove celery and add gelatin which has been softened in cold water. Stir until dissolved. Season with salt and pepper. Pour ½-inch layer into a buttered loaf pan which is a little larger than the loaf of bread. Chill until firm. Place prepared sandwich loaf in this layer of aspic and pour the remaining cooled and somewhat thickened aspic around it and over the top. Chill again until the aspic is firm. Unmold on a platter, garnish with watercress and slice crosswise to serve.

You can still do entertaining even on your ration point! If your best boy or son is coming home from camp, there's no need to worry about stumping those ration points out of you when you serve this loaf serving 12 to 15 people:

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By DR. HERBERT L. LUMPMER, D.D.

Editor of Sunday School Institute of Marion

Illustrated by Charles M. Strode, Marion

Lesson for May 22

Foolish children and teenagers, particularly boys, are so inclined to do foolish things with which they should not be associated.

BIBLE TEACHINGS ON WISDOM AND DECEITFULNESS

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 20:1; 23:20-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—At the last it shall be seen that it is better to be simple than to be wise.

PROVERBS 20:1-21

Deceitful is a good word to describe both the product and the propaganda of the liquor business. Alcoholic beverages are in themselves most deceitful, and the methods by which they are sold to the public certainly cannot commend themselves to right-thinking people.

Intoxicants are associated with social pretension, festive occasions, radiant beauty, when they ought to be connected with the blear eye, the babbling tongue, the ragged child, and brokenhearted mothers.

What about the men who have lost their positions and their characters, and the women who have paid with their virtue for their love of intoxicants? Why not picture them in the beautiful magazine advertisement!

1. Wine Is a Deceiver (Prov. 20:1).

Wine is personified here as an evil demon who leads men on to the hope of some pleasure or advantage, and then lets him down to the depths of destruction. It makes him think he is great and powerful, when he is only weak and degenerate.

It entices him to slothfulness and wild boisterousness, when he would normally be sensible, quiet and orderly.

He who thought he was wise in partaking of its stimulations, finds himself deceived, and to his regret he realizes that he is a fool to the hands of a malicious devil.

2. Wine Is a Destroyer (Prov. 23:23-25).

Depravity is a word not used as much as it was a generation ago, but it well describes the condition to which the drunkard comes in due time. And it is wine and other liquor which has depraved or corrup

tured him. A number of things appear in the text.

1. Liquor Destroys (vv. 20, 30).

This is true morally, mentally, physically, and spiritually. Red eyes, wounds, complaining—these are only the outward signs of inward physical destruction of alcohol. Woe and sorrow speak of mental and social distress. The moral and spiritual destruction follow.

2. Liquor Deludes (vv. 31, 32).

Its color, its sparkle and effervescence, its smooth appearance—all excite the anticipation of goodness and pleasure. And what does the drinker receive? The bits of the serpent and the sting of the adder.

3. Liquor Demoralizes (v. 33).

Alcohol is the handmaiden of inv morality. "Strange women" come into the picture very quickly. They and the drinker soon find that drink sets them free from the limitations of decency and good sense, and the result is beyond description.

Those who defend liquor, or tem porize with this problem, may as well recognize that they are encour aging the moral destruction of our boys and girls. It is a terrible responsibility!

4. Liquor Dulls Man's Senses and Dazes Man's Mind (vv. 34, 35).

Only a fool would down to sleep in the mist of the sea, or on top of the deck of a ship, or in the gulf, or against a lamp post. That's what drink does for a man.

His perceptions become so dull that he can be beaten, and he does not know he has been hurt.

Exposed to inclement weather, he knows not enough to seek shelter.

His money is lost or given away without concern on his part.

And when he sobered up—what then? His faculties are so dazed that he can think of only one thing to do,

CONSIDER WHEAT BINS ALONG C. AND O. R. R. TRACKS IN MARLINTON

Members of the County AAA committee in Marlinton Monday with a group of C. and O. Railway officials to make plans for the proposed installation of 5 wheat bins along the Marlinton siding. Railroad officials took the contracts back to the main office for signatures, after which they will be returned to the state AAA office at Morgantown. When all plans are completed, the state organization will install the bins. It is reported:

The bin for which the bins is being constructed, is an accumulated surplus which the government has secured through its wartime products and in other ways, and is being sold to farmers for livestock feed. This surplus, purchased by Dr. K. J. Hamrick, already has been received here. While of fair quality, the wheat is graded as a No. 2 product, and has not had the shaft or other foreign particles removed from it, but is reported to be an excellent feed.

The state AAA officer reported this week that West Virginia farmers, dealers and processors have ordered nearly 270 thousand bushels of the recently released government surplus for feed. More than half of this amount has already been shipped to the state.

CLYDE BUZZARD TO DIRECT FARM LABOR PROJECT IN COUNTY

WILL Supervise Extension Service Program in Recruiting Help for Prestonian Farms.

Clyde Buzzard, well-known farmer of Hinesbank Springs, has been selected by the West Virginia Agricultural Extension Service to aid County agricultural agent Dan Morgan in the work of recruiting and placing of labor with the farmers of this county who will need help in carrying on their farm programs this year. He will have his headquarters in Marlinton in the offices of Mr. Morgan.

As an assistant worker in the Extension program's farm labor program, Mr. Buzzard, a successful farmer in his own right and well acquainted with the farm labor needs of the county, will aid County Agent Morgan in receiving applications from farmers who will need help this year, and from adults not now employed, who are interested in getting farm jobs on a full-time, part-time, or season basis.

He will also cooperate with school officials of the county in the selection and placing of high school boys on farms during the vacation period, and the placing of youths, aged 16 to 24, not in school, in full-time or part-time farm jobs.

To Provide Supervision

After the workers are placed on the farms, Mr. Buzzard and Mr. Morgan will keep in touch with them and their employers throughout the season and will supervise the general relationships between the farmer employer and their new hired hands.

Farmers in this county who will need help of any kind this season, should communicate at once with the county agent's office and state what type of worker, or workers, they will need and how many of them. The Extension Service will then try to place on the individual farms the type of workers requested. Persons needing farm work are also requested to apply at the county Extension office.

Mr. Buzzard has announced that he will be in the County Agent's office each Saturday, and asks the co-operation of all farmers and workers

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Air Raids Soften Europe for Invasion; Decisive Allied Moves Against Japan Forecast in Washington Strategy Meet; WLB Regains Authority on Wage Boosts

With activity against the Japs on all eastern fronts forecast by recent Washington conference, Allied air strikes against the enemy loom large in the latest pleitee. Above are shown four American-trained Chinese pilots looking over the instrument panel of a P-40, in company with Maj. Grant Mahaney of the U. S. air force in China.

OFFENSIVES:

Europe and Asia Both :

Not only Allied smashers against Hitler's Europe, but decisive campaigns against Jap-held domains in Asia and the South Pacific in weeks to come were on the United Nations' war timetable scheduled by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in their Washington conference.

That activity against Japan would be stepped up on a major scale was indicated by two developments. One was the presence at the Washington conferences of Commander-in-Chief Sir Archibald Wavell of India, Admiral Sir James Somerville, the Eastern Fleet commander, and Sir Richard Peirse, the India air commander. The other was the disappearance of Admiral William F. Halsey and Gen. Douglas MacArthur had met to co-ordinate future operations in their areas.

Indicative of the trend toward decisive American action was a Tokyo radio report that strong U. S. forces had invaded the Jap-held island of Attu in the Aleutians.

Observers believed that future moves on Japan might take on a masterpiece character. One prong would come in on Nippon from the east via Halsey's and MacArthur's combined forces in the Pacific. The other would squeeze Japan's back from the Indian ocean and the Indochina front, using the combined commands of Wavell, Somerville and Peirse.

TRADE PACTS:

Green Light by House

Surging Crops and the Threat of Economic Limitations, President Roosevelt's general trade program was selected by the house of representatives for a term of two years.

The return had depended on party lines and the Republicans had supported a series of amendments which the Democrats charged would have been "a time of death" to the economy. Senator Harry Key, who had gained support sufficient to move Senate action, while it got no support from Republicans, the amendments were rejected by the Senate. The measure West of River City now has members of Congress ready and willing to support the expansion of the act.

Both the vote party have been unable to reach an agreement.

CANDY:

I'm a Candyland

As a result of the new legislation, the House of Representatives has agreed to a bill which would permit the government to regulate the production of sugar and other staples.

RUSSIA:

Donets Flares Anew

Even as the Red army had continued its methodical, grinding advance against the line of German fortifications outside Novorossiisk, last Nazi-held bastion in the Caucasus, other Russian forces to the north in the Donets river valley had opened fierce attacks near Lysichansk, about 125 miles southeast of Kharkov.

For weeks, Soviet dispatches had reported in vain after the arrival of German troops rolling eastward to the Italian front. But Hitler had kept his moves for what would be his last chance offensive well masked.

In the action near Lysichansk, gateway to the eastern Donets basin, the Russians said the enemy had tried a wedge-shaped drive into Russia-held territory, but this thrust was pushed back, in pursuing the retreating Nazis the Red troops were able to establish themselves on a hill of "great tactical importance."

AIR RAIDS:

Bombs Write History

Cologne and Dortmund had suffered destructive Allied air raids that dwarfed the damage visited on London by the Luftwaffe in the battle of Britain, but it remained for Duisburg, center of German war and transportation hub of the Nazi's defense of western Europe, to be smashed by the heaviest aerial assault in all history.

The RAF was the Allied instrument of destruction. It was estimated that as many as 2,000 tons of bombs were dropped. The heaviest previous raid ever made anywhere was that on Cologne, on May 31, 1942, when 1,000 bombers were employed and more than 1,500 tons of explosives were rained on the Nazi city. An attack on Dortmund had reached the intensity of the Cologne raid, but the Duisburg raid was the heaviest of all time.

That the Duisburg raid was but a prelude to what Nazi-held Europe might expect was indicated by the war held forth by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in announcing a loan program.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, said the program would be in the hands of the RFC Mortgage company. The company, he added, is ready to consider loans against real estate, including stores, privately owned gasoline and service stations and business properties generally that have lost their earning power by reason of wartime restrictions and regulations.

Mr. Jones announced that three types of loans will be considered: participation loans, refunding loans; and rate and preservation loans.

WAGE BOOTS:

WLB May Set

The War Labor Board got back to its independently authority to make wage adjustments despite the stabilization department's opposition to the new policy in most cases. The board has voted to set the new rates to start in the fall of 1943.

However, just as his plan was to go into effect, the president of the AFL, George Meany, has moved to the way of the WLB. He has asked his union to accept the new rates without any changes in the way of

SUBMARINES:

Allies' Defense Gains

The Allies were making steady progress against Hitler's U-boats most potent weapon—the submarine. Decreases in monthly shipping losses by the United Nations and the expenditure of accumulated Allied munitions and supplies in North Africa at the victory finale are indicative of this.

Evidence of how the Allies were successfully applying air and sea power plus grit and stout hearts against the Nazi submarine peril abounded in epic report issued by the British admiralty describing how navy escort ships and Royal Canadian Air force planes had sunk or probably sunk 10 German submarines in an eight-day battle in the Atlantic.

Characterizing the action as the biggest single Allied victory against U-boats, the admiralty report said that planes, destroyers, frigates, corvettes, cutters and sloops joined in the battle continuing day and night for eight days. As many as 25 enemy submarines were in action at one time. The battle finally turned in favor of the convoy. "Some damage was suffered," the admiralty said, "but the majority of the merchantmen reached port in safety."

MERGER:

Wire Giants Unite

Improved telegraph services for those engaged directly in the war and for the general public in the post-war period was forecast as a result of the merger of Postal Telegraph Inc. and Western Union Telegraph company.

Together the two companies do a business of about $145,000,000 a year and their combined assets will approach $500,000,000.

Concluding negotiations and discussions covering more than 20 years, the merger was made possible by recent congressional action and by approval of the Federal Communications Commission. Under the terms of the agreement, Western Union will acquire all assets and all business of Postal Telegraph and assume its liabilities and obligations, including the amount owed by Postal to the Reconstruction Finance corporation at the time of the closing of the agreement.

CURB:

War Plant Building

Ordering a halt on virtually all war plant construction which cannot be completed by October 1, the War Production Board announced that the nation now has enough industrial plants to produce the materials required to beat the Axis.

Meanwhile the board had directed a widespread conversion of machine plant tools and other existing facilities to the production of more urgently needed goods. Calling its action a "significant milestone in the war program," the WPB said that men and materials released by its new directives would be channeled elsewhere into the war program.

WPB officials estimated that construction of between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 in new war plants would be halted, even if it were necessary to dismantle partially completed ones. Many machine tools orders will be cancelled, and tool plants will be converted to the production of "things that shoot."

The announcement emphasized that there "has been no easing-off in the demand for critical materials, there is on the horizon no indication whatever of a lessening in the demand for labor."

LIFELINE:

For Small Business

Hope for financial aid for small store owners, operators of gasoline and service stations and other small businesses adversely affected by the war was held forth by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in announcing a loan program.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, said the program would be in the hands of the RFC Mortgage company. The company, he added, is ready to consider loans against real estate, including stores, privately owned gasoline and service stations and business properties generally that have lost their earning power by reason of wartime restrictions and regulations.

Mr. Jones announced that three types of loans will be considered: participation loans, refunding loans; and rate and preservation loans.

Swat The Farmers!

It is peculiar (certain in the farmers) that the New Deal has become more and more antagonistic to agriculture. Deliberately, it seems, the farmers are jockeyed by the White House into positions where they are trifled with by their city neighbor. And, meanwhile, the New Deal throws its mantle of protection over other groups.

Bark of this apparent friendliness against farm-folk could be the individualism of the men and women of the open range, their antipathy to any "ism" that does not embrace Americanism, their refusal to accept regimentation. Or it could be something deeper. It could go back to the philosophy expressed quietly in the '30's which was buried away by one of the most ardent of New Deal spokesmen.

Jay Franklin is known in Washington to everyone who knows the New Deal. He was one of the first appointees to an official position in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Since the mid-Thirties he has become a syndicated newspaper columnist, widely accepted as reflecting New Deal thought. No one believes that he does not have influence within the inner-circle. And his real views toward the farmers are worthy of a re-examination at the New Deal tower its bark on them.

This New Deal official said:

"The problem of Farm Relief will become, not how shall we relieve the farmer, but who shall relieve us of the farmer?"

And he added these repressive thoughts:

The farmer has arrogated to himself all virtue and all knowledge, he has total against progress, against civilization, against the city, against science, against art. He has made and unmade Presidents in the image of Main Street; he has exhausted our soil so he will exhaust our Treasury if given half a chance. He is the greatest obstacle to human progress, the greatest threat to political stability, and that we shall do our best to get rid of him.

About the only comment necessary is to say that I feel otherwise about the methods of the leaders of the New Deal than the spokesman and the press could do well to remember, and that the idealism and the progressiveness of the leaders predominates at the core of the new deal.

EVERY DRIVER CAN HELP

KEEP 'EM ROLLING

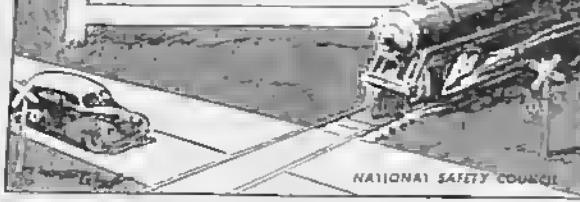

WHEN 1942 started, we predicted that weapons and materials vital to victory must be moved rapidly, safely and without delay.

But each day accidents at grade crossings in America happen to 1000 vehicles and 2000 trains a total of 22 hours—a divorce insurance estimate that's addressed to a deeply remote effect.

With you as patriotic drivers, help in the war bond campaign, never under way, to stop the accidents! Here's how you can help:

1. Be extra careful—watch railroad to all your driving.
2. Be especially alert when approaching a grade crossing.
3. Be sure the way is clear before you cross the track.
4. HOOH DHH and HOO!

Help keep 'em rolling for victory!

THEY WERE EXPENDABLE

by W. C. WHITE W.N.U.FEATURES

THIS STORY OR PART OF THE STORY of Duke Peggy is the tolls for the Marliners to bring back to him of the 600 naval officers who are all that is left of about 1,000 Torpedo Boat Squadron 2. THAT means that Duke Bulkeley from Electrical Powerplants, Canadian commandant, Lt. Col. R. D. Miller, commandant-commissioned and Captain Anthony Scott and Lieut. G. E. St. Leger Kelly, and the medical corps, 100 wounded them, two died, the rest were missing in action. Finally, on the night before, we were done and we all had our ships wiped out. While he was down the general was ordered. George Atlee in the end of his usefulness became Major General.

CHAPTER V

"Twelve hours before the Japs entered the town I was sent back into Manila to pick up the remnants. I had just eighty gallons of gas to go three thirty miles—finally got back with ten. A curious thing happened during those closing hours; nobody had given orders to blow up the oil reserves. Maybe some of them belonged to private companies; it would go against a business man's grain to blow up good oil. Finally a little junior-grade naval lieutenant noticed it. He sent me authority, but the gave orders he had no right to give, and presently the oil was blazing. I hear he got a Navy Cross for doing it.

"I was in Manila about that time," said Cox. "A big air attack was going on, although it had already been declared an open city. For that reason I had gone in with the guns on my boat with their canvas covers on—for welfare reasons. Yet, open city or not, the big air raid was on—streets deserted except for a few people running nowhere in particular like crazy, planes crisscrossing the sky above. The big church, about a mile from shore, was just beginning to burn. In the harbor, boats were burning and sinking on all sides—five and ten thousand longers. But not a single shot was fired at the planes—which came down as low as five hundred feet.

"I went up on into the city, and everywhere people were kind and helpful. The Japs were right outside the town, and yet the storekeepers would give me anything we Americans needed without either money or a voucher—just sign a paper, that was all. They trusted us."

"I took my boat into the harbor just as the Japs were entering the city," said Bulkeley. "It was night, and we could see the town burning—a huge death-pool of smoke hanging above and oil six inches deep over the water. It looked like doom hanging over a great city, and it was. Made you feel bad. We stayed out there from nine o'clock at night until about three in the morning. Didn't dare go ashore, and anyway our job was to destroy harbor shipping—so what was left if it wouldn't fall into Jap hands."

"I had to leave all my spare uniforms in my locker there, damn them," said Akers. "I hope some of them fit."

"Watching them take over made you feel pretty sick," said Bulkeley. "We finished up and started home, to get back before dawn, now and then looking back at the fires over the water. Every time it made us sick."

"It was a tough New Year's Eve for me, too," said Kelly, "because we knew more or less what was going on. Then there was another reason. Some of the army officers were throwing a little New Year's party with the nurses that night, and since this medical officer Peggy had been racing with was just back from Batan, of course I knew where she was."

"Our first plan was, when we got down to our minimum, to get out to Australia. The navy patrol bombers had planted caches of gasoline among the islands like stepping-stones, and the Admiral gave us their location. But the first stepping-stone was Singapore, and the Japs were working their way down the peninsula, closer and closer to it. Could we get there first? Of course we wouldn't leave the Philippines until all of our torpedoes were gone and we had just enough gas left to make the final run. But then, as you know, Singapore fell and also the southern islands—Calabas and Zarabangas. The route with the cached gas was closed—

"All that night there was no news. I was up at 5:30—Any dope from the torpedo boats?—still nothing. But at seven they said, yes, Bulkeley had come back, managed to sink a cruiser and get away, but the other boat was missing—probably lost."

"It was a job we did for the Army," explained Lieutenant Bulkeley, (describing the historic attack of his P. T. Boat in Subic Bay mentioned.) "A couple of Jap ships, one of them an Imperial Navy auxiliary cruiser with 6-inch guns had been shelling our 133-millimeter emplacements on Usisan—blasting them with heavy stuff. The major charge had been wondering how to get rid of them and had chosen Admiral Rockwell, who gave us permission to tackle the job. We knew they were based in Subic Bay, probably in Port Blazza, Subic is on the west coast of Luzon, just north of Batan. I had to send two boats—the 31 boat, which was Lieutenant Delong's, and the 34 boat, which was Kelly's, now commanded by Captain Cheshire. I went along in the 34 boat."

"Then Bulkeley here hit on a real plan. When our first one down to just what we could carry on our deck instead of having around to get stranded by the Japs and take our boat to them to continue the job. At first I thought you'd say that was the Japanese idea of the Japanese, so I decided not to do it. But then I thought, if we had to do it, we'd better do it."

"So I went along with the others and the others did the same. I was the only one who didn't want to do it. I said, 'Well, I don't want to do it.' They said, 'Well, we'll do it.'

"I said, 'Well, I don't want to do it.' They said, 'Well, we'll do it.'

here, to celebrate it. Bill Peggy had been preparing. The Island was on two miles a day, but short managed to hold back a couple of airplanes and a whole box of marshmallows. This won our New Year's Eve supper, and I'll bet that you, wherever you have it, couldn't have lasted any better.

"Running any kind of romance, no matter how small, was a great problem on Corregidor. About the best place to do it was right down where we were, at the tunnel mouth. But the road ran right in front of it, and every five minutes an army truck would barge suddenly around the curve, shining its dimmed-down headlights right on you. Then for another three minutes you were choking with dust. If you got tired of this and tried to go for a walk, you'd hardly get started when you would realize that eleven thousand men were trying to sleep all over that little island, and if you went far, you would sleep on most of them in the dark, and not many of them would thank you for it. There wasn't an unoccupied square foot anywhere.

"We proved him later on when the doctor prescribed walks for me—to build back my strength, because I'd lost thirty pounds—and Peggy was assigned to go along. The troops swarmed on that island—every pond was crowded with them both, and I would always have to go ahead to take a look

"So we stoned it for the next morning, when the ward doctor would be dressing my hand at about the same time the head surgeon made his rounds. We tackled him. I made my talk, and he seemed to waver. 'Tell this bird you need me,' I said to the skipper. 'We really do,' said Bulkeley, but just then Peggy overheard and quelled the whole thing. 'Certainly not!' she said. 'You can't let him go back to duty with his hand wide-open!' That swung him back. 'Duty!' he growled. 'Who said anything about duty? Two weeks of it and you'd lose your whole arm.'

"I tried to argue—point out that if the NTB's went out on a mission, I could hold on with one arm as well as two, but Peggy had done it, and now he wouldn't listen.

"One of these days you're going to find an empty bunk," I said. I was gloomy all that next week, but Peggy said I was a fool. That there were plenty of well-fit men to do my job. And that if I hadn't been so damned stubborn in the first place, and had got that hand treated in time, I'd never have come to the hospital, and never met her, and she would never have been able to break up my plan to get out, so it was all my fault!

"She's always had that cute way of seeming to storm at you and dress you down, so that you ended up by grinning and couldn't stay mad at anything long.

"So it went along for another week, she leading me out for walks every day to get some of those thirty pounds back, and then one day we returned to find that Bulkeley had been looking for me—said he was going out on a raid that night, up to Subic Bay looking for a Jap cruiser, that he'd waited hoping to take me, but finally had to leave.

"It set me almost crazy. If I hadn't been out on that damned health tour with a pretty girl, I wouldn't have missed the raid! So here I was while my gang was up there tangling with a cruiser, maybe getting killed, because the Japs had Subic Bay so thick with guns that it was almost suicide to go in.

"All that night there was no news. I was up at 5:30—Any dope from the torpedo boats?—still nothing. But at seven they said, yes, Bulkeley had come back, managed to sink a cruiser and get away, but the other boat was missing—probably lost."

Chungking entreated back that it could be done.

"They sold the Japs held the Sway low, English thinly—at no point did they go more than ten miles inland. So, at an agreed time, and at an rendezvous on the coast, Chungking would send a twirling party down to fight its way to the beach and meet us.

"Three we would burn our boats now useless with oil torpedoes expended against Jap targets. The pended against Jap targets. The Chinese couldn't hold that point long—but long enough to huddle us through that ten-mile Jap-held strip onto free Chinese soil. There trucks would take us to the nearest airfield, we would fly to Chungking, and from there a four-motored American ferry-command plane would bring us back to the States.

"Where was the flaw? We couldn't see one, unless somehow it leaked out. Besides myself, only four living people knew. They were D. Long of our squadron, Captain Ray, chief of staff, Colonel Wood, and of course the skipper here, who had worked out every detail.

"But before we left we knew there would be plenty of action ahead for us here, and I told Bulkeley I was crazy to get out of this hospital—and asked for his help. If they'd let me get back to duty, I'd agree to anything—promise to go along.

"The troops swarmed on that island—every pond was crowded with them both, and I would always have to go ahead to take a look

HOUSEHOLD
MEMOS... by Lynn ChambersChildren Need Good, Wholesome Foods
At Their Parties

Simple parties help make children at ease with their friends, do a lot toward laying the foundations for their social success. Watch them enjoy playing host and hostess as this little pair is doing.

How do you eat with your younger generation? Are you content when you keep them clean, get them off to school, and give them some extra tutoring when they need it in English or math?

Yes, that in itself is a big job, and you are doing a big job if you have that part in smooth, running order. Notice, I didn't say whole job, because unless you provide for healthy recreation and play, the child is not getting his rightful share and start in life.

Future Americans must be a social as well as business success to be wholesome and happy. To prepare the child for this, you must provide him with a social and recreational outlet—and that means an occasional party to which to invite younger friends so the child is at ease in his role as host or hostess.

There's a certain excitement at children's parties which easily upsets their tummies, and the best way to handle them is to have nourishing, wholesome food, rather than "parfified" dishes which will upset them even more. You'll find cooperation from other mothers if you let them know you will do everything to make her children at ease.

Let your decoration be a bit fuzzy and partyish, of course, but keep to the sensible on the food. Have table favors, of course, for this eases out the theme and the children adore it. It stimulates conversation and keeps things going smoothly.

Fresh salmon steaks may be used in making the flaked salmon called for in this recipe. Serve it on small toast rounds and the children will adore it.

custard cups. Bake in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 12 to 20 minutes. Unmold on toast rounds, garnish with parsley and serve.

Few children would pass up this delicious cheese 'n bread dish—it's delicious and good for them, too!

Cheese Fondue.

(Serves 6)

- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 cup grated cheese
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks until lemon colored. Cook cheese, bread crumbs, milk, butter and salt over low heat, stirring constantly. Add beaten egg yolks. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a well-greased casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until inserted knife comes out clean.

An afternoon party menu may consist of assorted sandwiches.

Deviled Egg and Cheese Sandwiches.

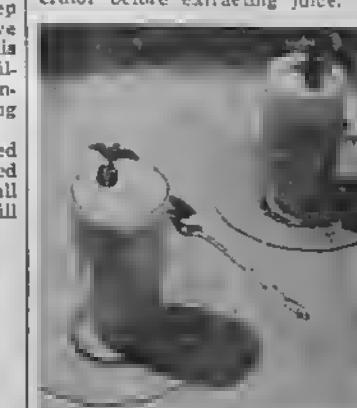

- 3 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
- 6 slices buttered whole wheat bread
- 3 wafer-thin slices of Swiss-type cheese

Watercress

Dill pickles

Cut eggs, crosswise and into halves. Mash yolks and blend with mustard, salt and worcestershire sauce, mixing well. Fill the whites. Cut eggs into thin slices and arrange on three slices of bread. Top egg slices with cheese and a second piece of bread. Cut in halves and garnish with watercress and dill pickles.

A citrus fruit drink is refreshing, fine for keeping up young spirits busy at play during party time. Keep all the flavor in the orange juice plus valuable vitamin C by squeezing it only just before serving. To have chilled juice, chill whole oranges in refrigerator before extracting juice.

Wholesome drink with a party air is this cool glass of orange juice topped prettily with orange sherbet, decorated sprigs of mint and whole raspberries. Orange float will keep you cool and full of pep, for vitamin C helps mitigate effects of heat.

Orange Sherbet.

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 cup water
- 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- 2 cups orange juice
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice

Boil sugar and water together for 5 minutes. Beat egg whites slowly and add to fruit juices. Mix all ingredients and pour into freezing tray of mechanical refrigerator. Freeze stiff, then beat thoroughly. Return to freezing compartment and freeze until stiff.

Peanut Butter Cookies.

- (Makes 2 dozen)
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup honey
- 3 tablespoons coco syrup
- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 cup shortening

Apple Butter

Mix all dry ingredients together. Cream shortening, add to peanut butter, honey and coco syrup. Add flour and roll dough into size you prefer for baked cookies. Chill for 15 minutes. Cut into thin slices and top half of them with apple butter. Cover with a second row of dough and seal as for a log. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) for 20 minutes.

The two hours of baking planning meals with peanut butter can be a real bore, but it's a good idea to have a few simple ones ready to use. Here are a few suggestions:

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

When our present synthetic program has materialized, a B.F. Goodrich official predicts the resultant rubber surplus will cause one of the most serious post-war marketing problems. What to do with the huge stocks of synthetic and natural rubber will test the ingenuity of manufacturers and sales executives.

A substitute for rubber adhesive tape is being sought. Thousands of pounds of this tape are being used to protect plastic airplane glues in transit to airplane factories.

Nearly three percent of the 144,000 workers of 94 war plants in 10 states go to and from work by private automobile. Nearly three-quarters of the cars used by these workers have been built since 1940; many of them are 1940 for reconditioning.

Minnehaha Springs Picnic
Women's Club May Meeting

The May meeting of the Minnehaha Springs Park Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. H. H. Rawson, May 11, 1943. Thirteen women and two visitors were present. Mrs. Hyde Hanson conducted an interesting devotional service based on points used in the presentation of "Jesus' Ministry during the recent planning conference there. Later in the program Mrs. Hanson discussed personal details and account of her trip and work at the conference.

Hall hall was expanded to be much more comfortable and pleasing the new set "set." However, it can stay. Many helpful ideas were gained from this feature.

The discussion of the lesson, "The Servants in Zion," was led by Mrs. Lloyd Pennington and participated in by the entire club. Mrs. J. T. White demonstrated "How to Prepare Waffles" — how to stir, stand, and how to lift heavy containers. Mrs. Hanson exhibited some very interesting half-hoops.

Following adjournment, delicious refreshments were served by the members. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Julian Lockridge on Wednesday afternoon, June 2.

HEIR MAIL
North Africa,
May, 1943

Dear Son:

I wish you could see your old man all dressed up in his new suit. It's a bird! One arm of the seat and one side of the vest is made of plaster. One leg of the pants is made of the same material without a cuff. The new hat I got to go along with the outfit makes me look like a "Fortune Teller." The news telling me of your birth finally leaked through my cracked dome. DAD.

P. S. I'll be home one of these days to look you over . . . Uncle Sam can't see me any longer. So, long, Kid, until I see you.

Any American able to read between the lines, should realize the importance of Buying War Defense Bonds and Stamps to the very limit of his ability.

"T" Coupons Must Last Until July 25, ODT Warns

The Office of Defense Transportation at Morgantown this week notified all County War Board chairman that a reduction of 10 per cent in transport refunds would be effected by the extension of second quarter "T" coupon life from June 30 to July 25. Third quarter coupons will not become valid until July 26.

The action, it was stated, was taken at request of WFA and other agents to help meet general gasoline shortage and is part of a program to insure a supply of fuel for non-highway farm uses. Farmers who hold "T" ration thus far must cooperate by not appealing for extra "T" ration unless necessary. When appeals become necessary regular county farm transportation committee procedure will apply.

IT

Impresses

THAT is all the more reason why the town of Marlinton should be proud of the fact that the town's own boy, Edward McNeilly, has graduated from the University of Virginia.

THAT a splendid addition to the city of Marlinton would be the presence of Rev. Mr. McNeilly as a resident agent. It would be our private guess that Rev. McNeilly knows what it all should be and what our wife can do that the next graduated field teacher can do.

THAT one of the most popular members of the local business school staff, we were delighted to speak last week, is to be found in front of that library, which is probably the best reading opportunity in the state which is provided by Principled. It is a good example to others to be reflected in the culture of the youth who attend there.

THAT a graduation which treats that of our high schools is to be had by the Marlinton school. As the editorial board looking down into the face of the graduate with the smile all around his white and neat boyish countenance, and with the look in their eyes full and with a glow in their faces, we feel that Principled. It is the kind of teacher and student that should be encouraged for the evident uplift and development.

THAT the subject of graduation would be incomplete without a note about the delightful baccalaureate at Lawrenceburg. For the former Lawrenceburg High School and Lawrenceburg College students. Bishop Edward Hollister of Washington, D. C., delivered the oration in memory of placing all the emphasis upon the teacher instead of the usual pupil approach.
An illuminating feature of the day was given at the annual fund concert and drama parade held Sunday afternoon. It was a relief to see one concerning the broad education of these students, whose talent had been recognized in action and character. We are extremely proud for the town of Marlinton that it is possible for our people

THAT another year which we learned today is the end of the one that we have spent in the people who have been mentioned and those who just talk. At the graduation, the wealth of experience of the speaker and the speaker was reflected in the speech. He is well of his words while talking. And then at the door of the door, we had an opportunity and invitation of Mr. and Mrs. McNeilly. Board and with them from time to time. The town was well represented by the people who have been mentioned and those who just talk.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Attu Victory Brings U. S. Nearer Tokyo; Flood Damage Menaces Food Production; Labor Stirred by Lewis Bid to AFL; Churchill: 'Bomb Jap Cities to Ashes'

Editorial cartoon when opinion was split on Hitler's column, this attitude of Wilson newspaper editor was most representative of those expressed throughout the nation.

Feted from one end of the country to the other for his exploits in shooting down the record number of 78 Jap planes, Marine Capt. Joseph Foss received from President Roosevelt the Congressional Medal of Honor for "courageous heroism and courage above and beyond the call of duty." Photo shows, left to right: President Roosevelt; Mrs. Mary Foss, mother of the air hero; Captain Foss and his wife, June, displaying the medal around their neck.

ALEUTIANS:
Tokyo Gets Nearer

The Japanese government had prepared the civilian population of Nagoya for the fall of All through the medium of a report indicating that the last defenders of the Aleutian Islands outpost were making a death stand against attacking American troops.

While the Japs were gazing their All swan song, reports from Washington had disclosed the strategic moves that had succeeded in holding the enemy up. Two American columns, headed on opposite sides of the island, had joined and trapped the Japs on a narrow front on the north-western end of All.

Japs Burn Reds

As American air power thus moved closer to Tokyo, the Japs showed their interest. Apparently the success of Allied bombings of Germany had scared the Japanese government to the dangers ahead should the United Nations be permitted by Russia to use Siberian bases.

The result was a Tokyo broadcast reported by the British warning Russia "that 'if in the future she ever goes her Siberian bases at the disposal of the United States, the Japanese army must resort to a blitzkrieg and burn your her the heavily built bases her over known."

AFL TO LEWIS:
'Your Back Home'

Representative James L. Lewis, director of the drive of the American Federation of Labor carried in the name of application for the release of the United Mine Workers. Two days before he had been the personal guest speaker in the grand labor lecture in history.

Now the hour would be opened in the actual Mine Workers' home from AFL President William Green's announcement that the miners would receive their long awaited collective bargaining rights and sympathetic pay increases.

FLOODS:
Peril Farm Output

Ruined crops, inundated cities, damaged homes and casualties from drownings resulted from the disastrous flood that started in Midwestern farm states and spilled south from rivers and streams flowing into the Mississippi river.

As emergency crews and troops had toiled to check the rise of flood waters and hold down damage from breaks in Mississippi river levees protecting rich farm lands and war plants, weather bureau officials attributed the flood to unprecedented tiny rains.

In Illinois alone the continuous rains had destroyed 100,000 acres of corn, wheat and oats. Other states reporting serious crop destruction were Indiana, Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma. The flood losses represented a critical threat to the nation's epochal wartime food production crusade. The damage resulted not only from crops already in, but from serious delays in planting corn and other vital crops.

CLOTHES:
May Avoid Rationing

Retention of clothing and other textiles may be avoided as a result of plans worked out between officials of the War Production Board and retail clothing dealers, it was announced in Washington.

Under the new plan the WPB will make possible increased production of more essential types of clothing and textiles. At the same time tailors have promised to revise certain practices and develop new methods designed to relieve pressure on the industry.

"We believe we can avoid clothes rationing and other textiles this winter and perhaps indefinitely, if we get adequate support from the public," said an official statement.

CHURCHILL:
'Hitler First; Japs Next'

War to the death on Japan, but defeat of Hitler first was the recipe for complete United Nations' victory, was uttered by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in his historic speech before Congress.

Another congressional critic preferred that Britain would be the last in defeating Japan. Mr. Churchill pledged he was only by code with the Prime Minister there is still another and a third kind of war." He presented that nations as partners in the struggle to knock Japan out of the world.

The speech was the first of the year and the second in the House.

He also said that the United States would be the last to be defeated in the war.

The two critics would be the last to be defeated in the war.

The two critics would be the last to be defeated in the war.

GAS CRISIS:
Middle West Next?

As the gasoline supply crisis mounted along the Atlantic coast, Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown decreed a complete ban on gasoline driving in 12 eastern states, part of another and in the District of Columbia.

The states affected by the ruling were Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. In addition eight eastern counties in West Virginia were affected.

Previously the OPA had sought to curb nonessential driving through a voluntary "honor system."

That additional entreaties loomed ahead was indicated by Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes, who said that the East would have to cut its gasoline consumption still further and that new restrictions may be put into effect in the Middle West so that some gasoline may be diverted from there to the seaboard area.

FOOD CONFERENCE:
Postwar Goals Outlined

Continuance of food rationing after the war, the creation of a global agricultural commission and the assurance that the people of the world will be better fed in the postwar period were among goals agreed upon by delegates representing the "big three" of the United Nations—the United States, Great Britain, China and Soviet Russia—attending the food conference at Hot Springs, Va.

In addition the delegates were sold to be in agreement on declarations advocating continued agricultural expansion throughout the period of post-war relief, on a statement favoring the reduction of world tariffs and on educational measures to promote better nutritional goals.

Although no binding agreements linked the delegates, Paul H. Appleyard, undersecretary of agriculture and acting chairman of the American delegation, told that representatives of 44 governments attending the conference had come forward with offers of co-operation.

FARM IMPLEMENTS:

Bigger Output Ahead

Production of farm machinery in 1944 at an estimated rate of 80 per cent of the average annual output in the 1940-41 period, and unlimited production of repair parts was approved by the War Production Board.

Release of the official order awaited completion of a farm-to-farm check being made by the War Food Administration to determine specific machinery items needed by 5,000,000

DONALD NELSON
... Concentration on "dead duck."

farmers. Paul Henry, head of the WFA's production equipment branch, revealed.

Concentration of the farm equipment industry previously ordered in a WPB directive, is to be eliminated. Donald Nelson, WPB chairman, announced that "concentration is a dead duck." Thus large farm equipment manufacturers whose sales are over $10,000,000 are permitted to come back into production.

RUSSIANS:

Reds Press Hard

Even as former Ambassador Joseph E. Davies was engaged in conferences with Hungarian Premier Joseph Stalin in furtherance of his second and historic mission to Moscow, Red armies were reported by the Germans to have launched major attacks on four points along a 1,000-mile section of the Eastern front from the Volkhov sector in the Kirov valley to the Caucasus.

In the Caucasus campaign Nazi Germany shattered two Nazi attacks, according to a Berlin report, and blasted 14 battle miles of Nazi attacks in Hitler's west over the Kuban.

In the vicinity of Novorossiysk, including Astrakhan, in the west, Nazi forces sustained their greatest reverses since the beginning of the war.

PLAY IT SO PLANNING
KNIGHT OF HUMILITY
THEY TALK WITH HEART of us was the young, tomboyish, almost entirely of the practical and the subtle blabber.
We talk as though America would nothing but twits, would provide the brotherly love, the milk and honey, the non-abundant life that would make people of every nation happy.
To attempt any such program would mean suicide to Humble America.
The Axis nations and their satellites must undoubtedly be pulled for a long period. America cannot do all of that isolating. We can only do our best.

When the war ends, millions of people of ebony and coppered nations must be unerected and tell.
America cannot do all of that. We can only do our part. If we attempt more than we can do, we will but liquidate America through the bankrupt route. We will ruin the American people, American Industry and the American government. Our imperialism will benefit no other nation, but it will mark the end of all plans for world betterment.

Our post-war planning must be along realistic lines, only favored with such idealism as can be applied in a practical way. Only such a program can work out to a satisfactory conclusion. We must think of America, just as the English people will think of England; or the Russians will think of Russia.

War will not have obliterated selflessness, and America cannot be the only unselfish nation if we are to continue to live and exert an influence.

Churchill has very definitely stated that he does not intend to liquidate His Majesty's empire. That was a practical statement without any false idealism. American statesmen must consider post-war problems from a realistic practical viewpoint as they pertain to the United States. We, alone, cannot hold the Mediterranean bag, so all too many of our people would have us do if they really mean what they are saying.
A bankrupt and dead America would not be a world asset.

LIVING STANDARDS
IN "BACKWARD" NATIONS
AS AN INCENTIVE for higher wage scales through which to raise living standards in the backward nations, why not an international tariff system based on the cost of production in exporting countries?
For example:

If it costs as much, or more, to produce 100 pounds of pork in Canada as in the United States, the pork market would be open to Canada.
If the cost of producing an automobile in Canada were greater than in the United States, Canada could easily afford to difference in production costs on automobiles from the United States.

Using labor and sweat-shop methods Japan produces cotton for a lot less than the cost of cotton labor in America. Japan has exported into the U.S. at 10 per cent of the cost of cotton labor in America. Japan has paid as import tax of 10 per cent.

Here's How It Works

Bureaucratice officiancy is illustrated in the following instances:

The War Manpower Commission
"knows" all workers in their jobs.
"Relax," inside the Southern West Virginia coal fields and signs up 50 miners of one company to work in one of Harry Kaitas' stripmines—which wouldn't run if coal production were stopped.

Not a federal agency lifted a hand to stop the raid. Company managers had to appeal to the Manpower Commission to obtain relief.

Bread Upon The Waters

Administration "planners" have confessed that 10,000 bushels of government-owned wheat is rotting in bins in Nebraska because "a little negligence on our part." That's enough wheat to make about 760,000 loaves of bread.

This Will Make 'Em Sorry!

Washington is taking care that the dogs get plenty—not of punishment for their barbarous slaughter of American flora, but of good food and better products.

In one concentration center in Wyoming where there are 10,300 dogs, the government has stored up enough food to last 3 years, 5 months, and two weeks. That food costs cost American taxpayers 20, 817,123 dollars yearly.

Here are some of the items stored to insure that the dogs will not go hungry during the next three and a half years:

70,923 gallons of dogfood
70,773 bags of refined vegetables
60,600 cans of fruits
20,100 pounds of meat delivered as one item

A pound of baby food—spinach, carrots, peas and beans.
The government can eat salmon and trout and meat to see the inhuman dogs starved to death—but we are one of the species that can withstand starvation—so we will do the same for the barbarous of dogs. And the other day they ate the dead.

Our Merchant Marine

AMONG HISTORY'S MOST CHALLOING STORIES IS THAT OF OUR MERCHANT MARINE ITS FIRST CHAPTERS, LIKE MANY LATER ONES, WERE WRITTEN FROM STERN NECESSITY . . .

AT BEGINNING IN 1607, WITH THE DISBURGED FORMAN COLONISTS ON THE HENRICKSON RIVER, HAD BEEN HELD FROM THE FOREST THE FIRST AMERICAN-BUILT COMMERCIAL VESSEL, THE 30-TON PINNACE VIRGINIA, AND SAILED IN HER TO ENGLAND.

THE NEW ENGLAND COLONISTS, LACKING VIRGINIA'S TOBACCO CROP AND FERTILE SOIL TURNED TO THE SEA FOR THEIR LIVELIHOOD.

GREATEST FRIEND OF OUR COLONIAL SHIPPING WAS JOHN WINTHROP, FIRST GOVERNOR OF MASSACHUSETTS, WHOSE TINY SLOOP "BLESSING OF THE DAY" 1620 TRADED ALONG THE NEW ENGLAND COAST AND EVEN WITH THE DUTCH ON MANHATTAN ISLAND.

ARCHITECTURE AND TRADE PRESTIGE BY THE TIME OF WINTHROP, THERE WERE MORE THAN FORTY FRENCH AND SPANISH SHIPS READINGLY OPERATING.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN USED COMMERCIAL JARS LAST SUMMER SUCCESSFULLY. HOW CAN DO IT THIS YEAR IF THEY HAVE A FEW FACTS TO GUIDE THEM. USING THESE JARS ISN'T AS COMPLICATED WHEN YOU LEARN TO GRIP WITH THE JAR. FOR MORE INFORMATION, JUST ADDRESS A POSTCARD TO HOME ECONOMICS, U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, WASHINGTON, D. C., AND ASK FOR THE GLOSS BROCHURE.

These are the jars you will be able to use standard jars for.
There is something you will want to match. Some of the jars that came filled with commercial products have a shallow screw thread, or a flat opening, or the standard Mason jar. If you want the original Mason jar, you can get them at jars again with a new or old lid with a flamed-on rubber gasket.

Commercial jars with smaller than standard screw openings can be used if you have the metal screw bands that come with them. Now these metal screw bands are sold in the grocery stores, the same place you buy the coffee or other foods packed in the round mouth jars.

Thousands of women used commercial jars last summer successfully. How can do it this year if they have a few facts to guide them. Using these jars isn't as complicated when you learn to grip with the jar. For more information, just address a postcard to Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and ask for the gloss brochure.

Butter Will Bring 46c Lb.
Wholesale prices of butter will still be supported at a level equivalent to 40 cents a pound, Chicago basis, the War Food Administration has announced. This is true despite DPA's intention to roll back retail prices of butter.
